PROPOSALS

For Publishing, by Subscription,

THE COMPLETE WORKS OF

SIR WALTER SCOTT:

With a Biography: being the first American (and only) edition which contains the Author's last additions and illustrations, arranged upon their respective pages.

A COMPLETE and uniform edition of the various productions of the great 'Minstrel of the North,' is a desideratum with the American public. No library is complete without them, and no edition extant is sufficiently compact for such a repository; while the endless number of editions, without any uniformity in size, heretofore published, besides being exceedingly cumbrous, are far too voluminous and expensive to be within the reach of the great majority of readers. The undersigned therefore announce, that they have now in press, and will issue, an edition of the Works of Sir Walter Scott, which will embrace all his Poems, Novels, Histories, Biographies, and Fugitive Compositions, as well as the Biography and Private Correspondence, now in the course of publication in England, under the superintendence of Mr. Lockhart.

1st. In Parts: each Part embracing as much matter as is contained in two volumes of the present editions of the Waverley Novels, which will be put at the unprecedented low price of THIRTY SEVEN AND A HALF CENTS.

2d. Two parts will appear each month; but should the publishers find the work to meet the patronage they anticipate, FOUR PARTS will be issued monthly.

3d. The whole will be completed in seven volumes, or forty eight parts.

The paper on which the above is now printing, has been made expressly for the purpose; the present parts may, therefore, be considered a fair specimen, in every respect, of the whole work; but, should dissatisfaction arise with any subscriber, owing to an inferior article being offered, he may discontinue at any time, and have the amount paid returned.

Note.—The publication of the first volume is deferred until the receipt of the Biography, Private Correspondence, and the New Edition of the Author's Poetical Works, with 'contemporary criticism—various readings—and correspondence with some of the most eminent persons of the time when the Poems first appeared,' now in the course of publication in England.

Volume 1 will be ornamented with an excellent Portrait of Sir Walter Scott.

DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON, AUGUST 30, 1833.

GROSS OUTRAGE.—We are informed that Avery Allyn had made arrangements, last night, for one of his exhibitions, in a house in Liberty street, in this city, and that, just before he was going to commence his lecture, or exhibition, which ever it may be called, the door was broken open, and several persons entered, and committed a violent assault and battery upon the person of Allyn, who happened to be in the lower story, near the door.—He was, we are told, considerably injured, though not dangerously.

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO CANAL.—Memorials, of which the following is a copy, are now in circulation, through the city and county, for the reception of signatures.

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO CANAL.

To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States:—

The Memorial of the undersigned, citizens of Pittsburgh and its vicinity, respectfully represents—

That your Memorialists have watched, with the deepest interest, the commencement and progress of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, as a great national enterprize, originating with the Father of his country, and displaying more clearly, as it advances, the enlightened sagacity and farsighted patriotism of its illustrious projector.

The claims of this noble work to the countenance and patronage of the general government have been so often urged, and your honorable bodies already possess, in so many authentic forms, the fullest and most detailed evidence of its practicability and advantages, that the undersigned will not venture to repeat the arguments, or to spread anew before you the facts, which carried conviction to the minds of your predecessors, and the force of which time has only served to strengthen and confirm. But they would respectfully point to the present auspicious era, as offering a new impulse, and supplying an additional motive, to the further and vigorous interposition of Congress.

The national debt is discharged.—That cherished object—of deep and absorbing interest to the whole country, not only in reference to a just feeling of security and independence, but to the character and practical working of our Republican Institutions—has been accomplished. We are rid of the accumulated charges of two costly wars, witnessed by the same generation. We transmit no burden to posterity, to clog its rich inheritance. And, surely, at this moment of complete disengagement from pecuniary solicitude—when the great object of inquiry is as to the least mischievous plan for employing a redundant revenue—we do not err in asking you to give back to the nation, in the shape of a diffusive blessing, a portion of what has been confided to your disposal.

The objection, urged with success, to solicitations, in reference to improvements of a local, limited range, and usefulness, will not be pretended to be applicable here. There is nothing in this enterprize of a narrow, sectional character; in it mingle freely the sympathies and interests, as do the waters, of the East and the West. Nor will it fail to occur to your honorable bodies, that the question is not an open one, of original investment, but that a large amount of money, under an appropriation by Congress, has already passed into the work, and must share its fate. Shall the past expenditure be lost to the country? There is nothing, as the undersigned conceive, in the history of the work which can justify such infirmity of purpose, and rash abandonment of a great public stake.

Your Memorialists would respectfully venture to suggest that the character of the principal fund, which now flows into the Treasury with embarrassing profusion, may be considered as pointing to the proposed method of application. It is obvious that the impost at the Custom House ultimately presses with most severity on the consumer, who is furthest removed from the seaboard. The various agents of traffic, intermediate to consumption, take care to remunerate themselves liberally, in the price of the article, for every charge to which it is subjected in its passage through their hands. There would seem, then, to be no more equitable arrangement than that the Tax, which grows at each stage of transit, and carries its accumulated claim to reimbursement into the remotest cabin of the West, should be employed in alleviating the burden, by bringing the two great sections of our country together, into close commercial contact.

The Commonwealth, of which we are citizens, has taken an early, decided, and magnanimous part on this subject. Her own resources and credit deeply pledged in the construction of works to which the one in question might, if viewed with narrow jealousy, be deemed a rival. She has not yet hesitated to raise her voice, and to exercise her influence in furthering a great national object.—Her Statute Book presents the following Resolution:—

"Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, That the Senators of this State, in the United States' Senate, and the Representatives of this State in Congress, are requested to endeavor to procure the passage of a law authorizing the subscription of a Million of Dollars, on the part of the General Government, to the stock of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, to be expended on the Western Section."

FREDERICK SMITH,
Speaker of the H. of R.
WM. G. HAWKINS,
Speaker of the Senate.

Approved, 1st of April, 1831.
GEORGE WOLF."

The undersigned respectfully ask that this appeal may now be listened to, when our financial condition no longer requires that the urgent claims of a just, wise, and comprehensive national spirit, should be slighted or postponed. And they will, &c.

MIO-QUA-COO-NA-CAW.—The communication of "An Antiquarian," which we published in our paper of the 5th of July last, in relation to this chief, of the Shawano nation, has drawn from Col. Marschalk, editor of the Mississippi Gazette, a long and interesting article, from which we make some extracts. Col. Marschalk was formerly an officer in the United States' Army; and, as such, was on our northwestern frontier when Red Pole figured there, and was adopted by that chief, as his son, under the name of Unda Quallameta, or the Industrious Beaver. The following are extracts:—

"Simply to state, that the Chieftain of the forest, whose remains lie so honorably entombed in the sacred repository appropriated to the silent dead of more civilized man, was among the number of celebrated warriors who long contended in the field, and led his nation forth to battle against every opposing foe, and after being conquered in the decisive action of the 20th of October, 1794, under the walls of the British fort, Miami, by the gallant hero, Anthony Wayne,—that he was among the principal representatives of the Shawano nation, at the treaty of Greenville, where he was alike distinguished by his oratory; that, unaccustomed to the rigors of a northern climate, he fell a victim to disease, on his return from a visit to 'his Great Father,' President Washington; where he had accompanied Little Turtle, Blue Jacket, and several other of the most distinguished chiefs, from the North Western tribes; and had merited, by the dignity of his deportment and the urbanity of his manners, the respectful attention given to him while living, and the honorable memento which the now dilapidated monument exhibits to have been paid towards his remains. This much would, no doubt, amply satisfy the queries of the enquiring Antiquarian, as exhibiting a brief and correct notice of the 'son of the forest' thus distinguished. * * * *

"Our acquaintance with him commenced at the treaty of Greenville, made by Gen. Anthony Wayne, with the confederated tribes of North Western Indians, in August, 1795, where Red Pole was considered as a Chief of much influence. That treaty, being of great importance, was conducted with an uncommon degree of form and ceremony. A handsome council house was erected, expressly for the purpose, and the elegant marquee of the Commander in Chief, pitched, (for the first time,) on that occasion, for the accommodation of the Chiefs. The firing of a six pounder, and the display of a white flag, on the Council house, immediately after guard parade and relief, was the daily signal for assembling of the plenipotentiaries, who generally remained in session about four hours. The officers of the army, in full uniform, together with numerous warriors accompanying the chiefs, were the usual spectators of this very interesting scene. One or more of the Chiefs, as subjects were proposed, daily delivered speeches, not long, but many of them distinguished by their force of reasoning, and dignified manner of delivery. Among these, the Red Pole held a conspicuous stand.

"The encampment of Indians was directly in front of the cantonment, with which a daily intercourse took place by the officers of the army, who, in turn, received and entertained the Chiefs in their quarters during the day. Red Pole, accompanied by Little Turtle, (the Miami Chief, well known as principal leader against the unfortunate army of General St. Clair,) with whom he generally associated, often visited our quarters, accompanied Captain Wells, the interpreter, (who was inhumanly butchered, at Chicago, at the commencement of the last war with England.) Those visits were always interesting. The Turtle and Red Pole were uncommonly shrewd in their observations, and, frequently, in playful badinage, would elicit flashes of wit that would not disgrace the most polished circles. At the conclusion of the treaty, they retired to the homes of their respective tribes, and arrangements were immediately commenced preparatory to occupying the British posts, on our North Western frontier, the delivery of which had been procrastinated from time to time, by various frivolous pretexts, and no doubt was the true origin of the prolonged Indian wars on our frontier.

"Gen. Wayne visited the frontier forts in the fall of 1796. At Fort Maumee, then garrisoned by the company of the 2d sublegion, commanded by the writer of this article, he pitched his marquee within a few yards of the glacis, not pistol shot distance from the S. W. bastion of the fort, on the very spot from which he had viewed the works, then manned by the British Garrison, commanded by Major Campbell, on the 20th of October, 1794. On the bastion, at that time, a long 24 and three 18 pounders, brass guns, were mounted, together with four wall pieces of 48 pound calibre, in the casemates. Enraged at the hardy daring of the old hero, the British artillery officer was with difficulty restrained from applying the match by the commandant. The suite of General Wayne, at the moment, was his aids de camp, Major Debuts, of the 4th sublegion, Capt. Thomas Lewis, of the 3d, and Lieut. W. H. Harrison, (the present General,) of the 1st; also, Col. Henry Burbeck, of artillery, and several others, whose names at present are not recollected. The fact of the intention to fire, we received from two gentlemen, who were in the fort at the time, and to the pitching of the marquee, and recognizing the exact spot by the brave old General, we were eye witnesses.

A number of chiefs and warriors visited the General during the three days he remained at Fort Maumee. The Little Turtle and Red Pole arrived the day following his departure from Detroit.—Blue Jacket resided on an island, at the foot of the rapids of Miami. On visiting the fort, the Red Pole, addressing the writer, remarked, "my son, we are going to Detroit to see our father, Gen. Wynd, and then to the rising of the sun to take our great father, Gen. Washington, by the hand. The General has promised us a young chief to show us the path. The Turtle and Blue Jacket both love you, and we will ask for you if you are willing to go." The proposal was of course agreeable, as it offered a prospect of visiting those dear friends, from whose society we had been excluded by six years' hard duty in camp, and the more particularly, as the contemplated reduction of the army to the peace establishment, then conducted upon fair and honorable principles, would, as a junior captain, leave us among the number of supernumeraries; and the opportunity of returning home as an escort to our Indian friends, have been a pleasant tour of duty. We were, however, disappointed in our expectations. The Red Pole added, "We are going to the Island to get drunk two days; we will then wash our heads and go to Detroit to ask for you. During the debauch, we were severely attacked by ague and fever, and very reluctantly abandoned the proposed tour, recommending to "our red father" and his associates, our friend Captain Richard Sparks, (the late Colonel) who accompanied them to the seat of government; returning from whence, as we have stated, Red Pole died at Pittsburgh, where he was buried with military honors, and the monument erected over his remains.

Connected with the recollection of our Indian "father" is an amusing incident of more recent date, and which may probably dwell in the recollection of some of the ancient citizens of Philadelphia. A number of Chiefs visited Mr. Jefferson, during his Presidency, among whom was the Young Wolf (our adopted brother) nephew and successor of Red Pole. Among the amusements provided for them was a visit to the theatre. We were then on a tour of guard duty, with a detachment of artillery from Fort Mifflin.—Learning that Indians from the Lakes were in the city, and feeling a curiosity to ascertain whether any of our old acquaintances were of the number, we visited theatre for that purpose. They were seated on a back seat of the large front box of the old Chesnut street Theatre. Approaching the box we were recognized by "our brother," with a warm hug, imparting a plentiful quantity of vermillion to both our cheeks and a hearty yell, in which his associates, about 10 or 12, joined in full chorus. The curtain was up at the time, but the astonished actors stopped and gazed in silence at the scene.—Several ladies were much alarmed, and Madam Rumor stated that some did actually faint. The gentleman beaux were in full run to ascertain the cause of the alarm and found us sitting cheek by jowl among the Indians. We spent the evening with our young brother, and the day following entertained him with subaltern fare, at our post, since which we have not heard any thing farther from—our tribe.

Mus-qua-ki-na-ca or Red Pole.—In spinning this yarn, our readers will observe that the fit was uncommonly strong. However the remedy for its tediousness is with them—throw it down.

Little Turtle.—We have some interesting anecdotes of this celebrated Chief in M. S.—they may, or may not, according to circumstances, be forthcoming.

From the New York Spectator.

FREQUENCY OF CRIME.

We had occasion not long since to allude to, and deplore, the great increase of crime in our country; and we observe that other journals make it also the subject of comment. A morning paper attributes "the general increase of poverty and crime" both in England and the United States, to "the extensive charities and the number and variety of societies for the relief of human wants and the cure of human vices." This would indeed throw us back into the dark ages; and were the remark well founded, would prove philanthropy to be a curse. If charities are so misdirected as to weaken the inducements to industry, that misdirection is undoubtedly, pro tanto, a drawback upon the benefits they are otherwise calculated to produce. But even that does not prove that such charities are not useful in the main—nor does it apply at all to those that are founded for the relief of such as by infirmity, age, or accident, are unable to labor.—Many charities, and many societies too, have been founded for the express purpose of promoting industry, and are, in their organization, well adapted to that end. Despair is as fatal to industry as reliance, and proper encouragement is often a powerful auxiliary in its advancement.

That much of the increase of crime is attributable to the "amelioration of the criminal code, to the abolition of corporal punishment, and to the misplaced sympathy for criminals" we fully admit; but we also think that not a small portion of it is to be ascribed to the public journals, which minister to the morbid taste of the age. The articles most eagerly shout for, and most readily inserted, are those which detail the cunning contrivances of thieves and pickpockets, or deep malignity and unhallowed passions of murderers and other felons. The most disgusting details are sought for, and our police offices and criminal courts are almost literally beseiged, for the obtainment of such records of depravity as they may be made to furnish. We cannot so well express our views of the dangerous tendency of this course of proceeding, as by giving place to a brief article on the subject from the pen of our friend, the Editor of the Boston Mercantile Journal. He observes—

"The times are out of joint. Mankind seem to be vying with each other in the commission of atrocities. The papers are filled with accounts of murders, suicides, duels, robberies, and other crimes. Of suicides, in particular, there is a fearful amount. To inquire into the source of this diseased state of the general mind would lead us into speculations not exactly adapted to a popular newspaper, but the subject would be an interesting one, provided there was plenty of time and plenty of room. Are not editors somewhat to blame for feeding the public with highly colored narratives of all the wild and monstrous shapes in which guilt appears? We can hardly open a newspaper without "supping full of horrors." No one can be constantly reading of horrible crimes and dwelling upon them without some injury to the moral sense, and, in some men, the contemplation of the imaginary picture begets an unaccountable desire to experience and know the true one. And then too, what eclat a murderer acquires. His name and deed fly from one end of the Union to the other. His portrait is stuck up in the shop windows—his trial is copied and commented upon—crowds attend him to the scaffold, and he is the hero of the day. What notoriety can be so easily obtained—it is no wonder that many aspire after it."

Once more we appeal to the better feelings of the fraternity, on the subject of uniting in an effort to improve the character of the public press. Why may not a convention be formed, agree upon a plan, and establish rules that shall be calculated to make our papers more useful, less offensive to good taste, and in all respects render them more worthy of the patronage of the public?—Why is it not as practicable, by mutual agreement, uniform prices for advertisements, and such other regulations for mutual benefit as have been from time to time agreed upon and adhered to? Let us throw aside the little bickerings, and the personal squabbles, too often indulged in, and give to our journals a higher moral tone; and instead of groping in the purlieus of courts and jails—of police offices and bridewells, for items of news, let them be devoted to the higher objects of imparting such kind of information as may elevate the mind, purify the morals, and refine the taste of our patrons.

Yankee Enterprize.—A Gentleman, not long since from Mexico, informs us of another specimen of the enterprize peculiar to the American character. Vera Cruz is the sea port of Mexico, distant about two hundred miles. For a long period of time, three weeks have been occupied in passing by the regular conveyance between the two cities, until about two years since, when a regular line of American stages was established. By this arrangement, the time occupied by the journey is reduced to five days, and the fare is $70. Our informant says the sensation is rather a peculiar and gratifying one for an American to seat himself in a regular built Troy Coach, drawn by American horses, with Yankee drivers, and go through the mountainous passes of the Andes with the same kind of traveling equipage with which he has been accustomed to cross the Green Mountains. The entire establishment was sent out from this country, and the principal owners now are three of the Drivers, on the line of whom one is a native of Brattleboro, Vt. At first, and even at this day, these coaches are frequently assailed and pelted by the mob, who are indignant at the loss of business which has been wrested from them, as formerly a vast number of mules and donkeys were occupied in the transportation of passengers. The proprietors, it is said, received a net profit of nearly $40,000 each the first year of the experiment, but great hazards and perilous encounters are had with the banditti which constantly infest the mountains.—Northampton Courier.

The Cotton Speculations.—We have been informed of various large sums of money suddenly made, within the last ten days, by the great and unexpected rise in this staple article. One instance, as it did not occur here, we may be permitted to relate. A New Orleans merchant, largely concerned in the cotton trade, happening to be in N. York, the notion took him to make a trip to Liverpool, to which he was in reality induced more by the superior accommodations of the New York packets, than from any call of business. He had no sooner landed in Liverpool, than he made himself, in a few days, perfectly familiar with the state of the Cotton Market. This knowledge, united to his full acquaintance with the market in this country satisfied him that a rise was about to take place in England. He proceeded to employ an agent who purchased on his account a very large amount of cotton. Before even the bills could be made out, and the cotton delivered to him, the rise in price which now agitates this market, suddenly took place; and so great the advance, from day to day, that, in one week, the sagacious New Orleans merchant resold his cotton, without having been obliged even to pay porterage, for a cash advance of TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.—American Sentinel.

From the Louisville (Ky.) Intelligencer, Aug. 16.

At the last Congressional Election, we succeeded in electing but four out of twelve members to Congress; the present election has resulted in the choice of ten National Republicans out of the thirteen Representatives to which Kentucky is entitled. On these, the country may rely, as being the warm and zealous supporters of Domestic Industry, the U. S. Bank, Internal Improvements, and the Public Land Bill. The defeat of Mr. Crittenden, in the Louisville district, is as much regretted as it was unexpected; but this loss is amply made up by the success of our candidates in every other district but two in the State, and in two or three where the contest was considered unpromising and doubtful. We congratulate the members elect on their success; and most sincerely do we congratulate the people of the commonwealth, that they have made choice of so able a delegation to represent them in the next Congress.

Competency of a Witness.—Municipal Court, Aug. 21, 1833. Thomas O. H. P. Burnham was offered by the government as a witness in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Lewis Bruce. Park, for the prisoner, having been informed that the witness did not believe in the existence of a God, objected to his being sworn in chief. The witness is sworn to make true answers. Judge, to witness: "Do you believe in the existence of a God?" Answer: "How can I believe, if I do not know?" Judge: "Do you feel under a religious obligation to speak the truth?" Answer: "I feel obliged to speak the truth." Judge: "Do you feel under an obligation to Almighty God, to speak the truth?" Answer: "How can I feel an obligation to one whom I do not know to exist?"

The witness was set aside by the Judge as not competent to be sworn.—Bost. Transcript.

Foreknowedge.—Bridges had just killed and weighed a fine pig, which he suspended from the limb of an apple tree, near the sty, when a neighbor passing by enquired the weight of his pig:—"Well, it didn't weigh as much as I expected, and I always knew it wouldn't."

Interesting and Painful News.—The editors of the Gazette have before them a letter from a friend, dated EASTPORT, Aug. 19.—It states, "I have seen Capt. Tucker, of schooner Leader, just returned from the Magdalene Islands, who informs us that Mr. Audubon, a week previous to the 22d of June, had been at an adjoining harbor, where he remained two days.

"Captain Tucker also informs, that this has been a most disastrous season among the fishermen belonging to Newfoundland, about 300 of them having been lost, with their vessels, (about 35,) in fishing for seal among the floating ice in the spring. It is supposed they were all lost in a violent gale in the spring, which destroyed the vessels among the ice."

BATON ROUGE, July 22, 1833.—The disease which is fatal to stock, and which we noticed, a short time since, now pervades the country generally. Cattle and hogs suffer most, for the reason, perhaps, that horses being more immediately under the care of man, receive early attention.

We are told that those scavengers of the earth, carrion crows and buzzards, will not touch an animal that has died of the disease. Such animals as die within the farms are usually burnt. Several persons have suffered severely from the poison with which the animals seem to be charged after death. We hear of an Indian who obtained permission to skin a steer, and died in a few hours afterwards, from a cut on the finger, made while skinning; the hand first, and then the arm and body swelled considerably, and with great rapidity, such is the active nature of the poison.—The disease is supposed to be caused by the sting of a fly.—Louisville Register.

The friends of humanity will regret to learn the death of the Hon. William Wilberforce, in the 74th year of his age—"a name," says a London paper, "with which there is probably associated more of love and veneration than ever fell to the lot of any single individual throughout the civilized globe."

Death of William Wilberforce, Esq.—This melancholy event took place on Sunday night, the 28th of July, at the house of Mr. Smith, in Cadogon Place. It is understood that Mr. Wilberforce has directed in his will that his funeral should be conducted without the smallest pomp, and that his body should be interred in the family vault of his brother in law, in the church yard of Stoke Newington. Mr Wilberforce was in the 74th year of his age.

The number of the Edinburgh Review, for last month, contains an article on Mr. Rush's "Residence at the Court of London." We may expect more liberality in the Whig, than we have found in the Tory journal, towards Mr. Rush. The treatment of this gentleman in the London Quarterly is condemned, however, as extremely unjust and ungrateful, in the highest British circles of either party.—Nat. Gaz.

Progress of Civilization in Algiers.—The influence of the Turks has long been declining in Algiers. But there are few Moorish families not connected in marriage with the public functionaries sent thither from time to time from Constantinople. Their descendants are denominated Coulouglis, and have always enjoyed particular privileges. The families connected with them have been enriched, but the source of wealth, which consisted of piracies upon the coast of Spain and Italy, has been stopped during many years; and Lord Exmouth put an end to Christian slavery in 1816, while various treaties with Europe decidedly checked the former irregular warfare, and weakened the Turks. In this state of things, we found the Moors ready to receive us as liberators. Our manners and refined habits were more pleasing to them than those of the Turkish soldiery. They have not forgotten Spain and its enchantments. Their countenances and gestures, and their whole demeanor, are strikingly Spanish. One of them, Sidi Bou Dharba, told me one day, that by his mother's side he was descended from the Moors of Granada. I have often played at whist, or ecarte, with these pretended barbarians, and found myself in enlightened discussion upon the comparative merits of European and Moslem manners. Their dwellings are fitted up with great luxury. At the country house of Sidi Hamedan, whose eldest son was educated at Paris, are to be seen all the resources of a man of taste—a library, and a garden laid out in the English style.—Polygamy is almost unknown at Algiers. The women have much more freedom than in other Mohammedan countries. They have the exclusive management of the house, and pay much attention to the education of their children. The Algerines are fond of music, and offered to contribute towards the expense of a theatre. Many of them speak French, Italian, Spanish, and English. And what seems decisive as to the civilization of the Moors, they possess a great number of schools conducted upon the Lancaster and Bell systems of mutual instruction; and primary instruction is more general than in France. It is a great error to suppose them hostile to our more enlightened views.—Westminster Review.

We copy the latest intelligence from London.—The British ministry have triumphed over the Opposition in the House of Lords. It is evident that popular clamor and newspaper denunciation have destroyed free will among the Peers. The passage of the Negro Emancipation bill, without material change, through Parliament, was deemed certain. The statements of the capture of Lisbon, and the utter defeat of Marshal Bourmont, before Oporto, need confirmation. Opinion in London seems to have been nearly unanimous with respect to the speedy and complete success of Don Pedro. We may doubt whether Portugal will fare better under the conquerors, than she has fared with Miguel. The London editors, although Don Miguel's fleet is represented to have been in a miserable condition before the battle, yet boast exceedingly of the prowess and skill of the British commander Napier and his British coadjutors, to whom they assign the whole credit of the victory. Bell's Weekly Messenger says—"Admiral Napier's capture of Don Miguel's fleet was certainly a most gallant achievement, full of daring courage, and of that superior skill and tact which mark the superiority of the British navy, and exhibit our sailors, under all climates, and in all services, as the foremost men of the Universe." One party in England must, nevertheless, regard the battle as an "untoward event," the designation which was given to that of Navarino.—Nat. Gaz.

It was remarked by M. de Talleyrand of the affability of the late Emperor Alexander, that no despotic Sovereign could have an excuse for a want of condescension to his inferiors, but that constitutional monarchs had many excuses to plead for this distance and regard of forms. 'The despot,' said Talleyrand, 'is never alarmed, lest the person with whom he condescends to be familar should presume, upon that condescension, to improper familarity on his own side, because he knows that the party so honored never loses sight of the power which the Sovereign has to punish him severely even for a look of presumption.'—The constitutional Monarch, on the contrary, is in constant dread lest his condescension should make those to whom it is shown annoyingly familiar, for he knows that the only punishment he can bestow, is turning his back on the offender.

The Cour Royale has confirmed the decision of the Tribunal de Premiere Instance in the case of the heirs of the Prince de Salm against Charles X., by which it is declared that a debt incurred by the latter during the emigration, for troops raised for the purpose of invading France, is illegal, and cannot be enforced before a French tribunal.

Lord Lovatt (from Walpole's Letters.)—When he came to the Tower, he told them, that if he were not so old and infirm, they would find it very difficult to keep him there. At his own house he used to say, that for thirty years of his life he never saw a gallows but it made his neck ache. The first day, as he was brought to his trial, a woman looked into the coach, and said, "You ugly old dog! Don't you think you will have that frightful head cut off?" He replied "You ugly old —— I believe I shall."

PERIODICALS.

AMERICAN RAILROAD JOURNAL, and Advocate of Internal Improvements, which is designed as a repository of the accounts of the rise and progress of numerous works of Internal Improvement, in the United States particularly, and in other parts of the world generally. The work is published weekly, and forms a large octavo volume each year, of 832 pages of 3 columns each, for $3 per annum, in advance.

New York Farmer, and American Gardener's Magazine. This work is designed for the agriculturist, and will be found to contain much, both interesting and profitable, to those who cultivate the soil as a business, or merely a garden for amusement. Published in monthly parts of 32 large octavo pages, with three columns each, at $3 per annum, in advance.

Mechanics' Magazine, and Register of Improvements and Inventions. To the Mechanics of the United States---In this populous and enlightened country, almost every description of persons can obtain knowledge and amusement connected with their peculiar pursuits, through the medium of the Journal or Magazine, especially devoted to their interests. The Theologian, the Farmer, the Philosopher, the Sportsman, and even the Plough Boy, has each his Journal, where he can find a record of the passing events of the day, connected with his peculiar avocations and recreations. Hitherto, the Mechanics (who form a large and most important portion of the community) have had no Journal, to which they could turn, with the certainty of finding that information they desire, no periodical of which they could say: 'This is ours, and for us.' In the hope that the attempt to supply such a want at a price so reasonable as to be within the reach of all, will meet with your active support, the subscriber proposes to publish, on the first day of each month, a Mechanics' Magazine. It will contain a well digested selection of the most useful and interesting articles in the London Mechanics' Magazine, London Register of Arts and Sciences, Repertory of Inventions, Library of Useful Knowledge, Journal of the Franklin Institute, and other works, connected with the arts and manufactures, published in this country and in Europe, accompanied with numerous and well executed Engravings. Its pages will be open for the communications of all, and especially for those of the practical artisan, to whose interest it will be particularly devoted. The Mechanics' Magazine will contain, also, a due portion of the occurrences of the month, Scientific and Literary Reviews of Books, Anecdotes, Economical Receipts, Reports of the state of Mechanics' Institutions, and other Scientific Societies in this state and other countries. PROSPECT HILL

Literary & Scientific Institution.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.

ON the 1st of July, Mr. DANIEL STONE intends opening, near the City of Pittsburgh, an Institution for the instruction of boys. Its plan is to combine, as far as possible, the peculiar advantages of a domestic and public education.—The pupils, with the principal and assistants, will constitute one family, and be at all times under careful supervision. The Discipline will be mild, but strict, such as a father, solicitous for the welfare of his children, would exercise over them. It is believed that an appeal to reason, and the sense of honor and duty, will generally secure obedience. Coercive measures will, therefore, be adopted only in extreme cases.

The Course of Study will embrace the English, Latin, Greek, and French Languages; Arithmetic, Algebra, and Geometry; Geography and History—Ancient and Modern; Rhetoric, Composition, and Elocution; Natural Philosophy and Chemistry; Penmanship, Orthography, and Reading. Frequent examinations will be held, open to the friends and relations of the youths.

The Mode of Instruction will be thorough and critical, and no subject will be relinquished until fully understood. That the scholar's mind may become vigorous, active, and self-confident—prepared for the stern conflicts of life, and a fearless discharge of its duties, he will be encouraged to reason and decide for himself.

Each student will be required to attend such church as his parent or guardian shall designate.

To preserve health and elasticity of spirits, to check indolence, and promote industry among the students, they will be daily exercised in athletic sports.

Pupils will be admitted between the ages of Six and Sixteen. None can be received for less than one term.

The uniform Dress will consist of a cap, blue roundabout, with metal buttons, and blue pantaloons. Every article of clothing should be marked with the owner's name in full.

The Terms are two hundred dollars a year, payable quarterly in advance. This includes Tuition, Board, Lodging, Washing, Mending, Light, and Fuel.

The Vacations, after the present year, will be three—the 1st, of two weeks, from the 3d Wednesday in April; the 2d, of four weeks, from the 2d Wednesday in August; and one week at Christmas.

The Matron's department will be under the care of Mrs. Reynolds, of this city.

New Theatre, Pittsburgh.

THE Public is respectfully informed, that this ELEGANT NEW THEATRE, at present building, in Fifth Street, will be opened for the Season, under the management of the subscriber, with a Dramatic Company not surpassed by any in the Union, on Monday, the Second of September, 1833.

The building has been substantially erected, by those well known Mechanics, Messrs. Roseburg, Reynolds, Scott, & McCulloch, after a plan drawn by John Haviland, Esq., of Philadelphia, whose justly acquired fame as an Architect will be increased by the style and Beauty of the Present Edifice.

A first rate London Artist has been employed, for the last three months, in preparing the Dresses especially for this Theatre, which, in point of

ELEGANCE AND SPLENDOR,

Will equal, if not surpass those belonging to the Metropolitan Theatres of New York, or Philadelphia.

THE SCENERY

Has been designed and executed by Mr. J. R. Smith, a young Artist of great talent, and whose productions may challenge comparison with those of the most distinguished Scene Painters of the day.

THE MACHINERY

Has been entrusted to the care of Mr. Stafford, late of the Philadelphia Theatres, and the direction of the

MECHANICAL DEPARTMENT

Will be placed under the Superintendence of Mr. Hoffner, of the Chesnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia.

In addition to the exertions of the Regular Company, most of whom are advantageously known in the Eastern Theatres, the Manager has great pride and pleasure in informing the inhabitants of Pittsburgh and its vicinity, that he has engaged, at great expense, the celebrated American Tragedian

MR. E. FORREST,

Who will have the honor of appearing before them at an early period, of which due notice will be given. Negotiations have already been entered into with the most distinguished Performers of the American Stage, who will appear in rapid succession—among others,

MR. & MRS. HILSON,
MISS CLARA FISHER,
MRS. KNIGHT,
MR. J. R. SCOTT,

Also, Mr. PARSLOE, of the Theatre, Covent Garden, London, &c. &c. &c.

In making these arrangements, the subscriber has used every exertion in his power to render THE THEATRE a place of rational amusement---

"To raise the genius and to mend the heart;
Shew Virtue her own features;
Vice her own image;
The age and body of the time, his form and pressure."

And he throws himself confidently on the liberality of the citizens of Pittsburgh for support.

MILL AND CROSS-CUT SAWS.

THE Subscriber has the satisfaction to say to the public, and his friends, that he has connected with his other business, the manufactury of Mill and Cross Cut Saws; and can furnish supplies to merchants and others: he believes them to be equal to any ever used in the western country—the experience of the workmen employed, with the known good qualities of the steel, justifies him in warranting the article to any who may be disposed to patronize western industry.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S

☞ WELCH MEDICAMENTUM. ☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer is vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞ A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S

COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes giving t emporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a l cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconyenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale the farm on which he lives, in Washington county, on Pigeon creek, one mile south of Williamsport, on the Monongahela river, to which there is a perfectly level road. This farm contains near 400 acres, the greater part of which is first rate land. There is on the premises a Brick Dwelling House, a Merchant mill, in good repair, a new saw mill, a stone still house, 35 by 40 feet; a salt works is also in operation, and worked to advantage; about 150 acres of land cleared and under good fence. There is on the premises three small tenements for the accommodation of families. This tract is well timbered, and abounds with stone coal and springs of water, both of the best quality.

To a person wishing to embark in a manufacturing business, and possessing capital, this would be a very desirable situation, having the advantage of both water power from Pigeon creek, and banks of the very best coal near to the works, and easy of access, and its vicinity to so navigable a river, where articles of any kind are so cheaply transported to Pittsburgh.

For further particulars, apply to James P. Stuart, Merchant, Wood street, Pittsburgh, or to the subscriber on the premises.

TRAVELLERS.

THE LINE OF STAGES between Chambersburgh and Baltimore, on the Somerset and Mountpleasant route, has been doubled, and now runs DAILY, (Mondays excepted,) leaving Chambersburgh at day-light in the morning, and arriving in Baltimore, early the same evening.

Passengers reach Philadelphia, in this way, the second afternoon, from Chambersburgh, without the loss of any rest; taking the splendid STEAM BOAT LINES, which set out at 6 o'clock in the morning, [via CHESAPEAKE AND DELAWARE CANAL, a work well worth the trip to see.]

REESIDE, Owner.

In all cases where the passengers desire to reach Baltimore in time for the 5 o'clock steam-boat to Philadelphia, they can do so by leaving Chambersburgh at one o'clock in the morning, or immediately after the arrival of the Western Mail Stage. In this way, they arrive in Philadelphia, by eight o'clock the second morning, from Chambersburgh.

☞ When a load offers, the stage will run on Mondays. April 23, 1830.—tf.

TYPE FOUNDRY.

HAVING purchased of Mr. Richard Ronaldson, his long established and very extensive Type Foundry, the subscribers have formed a co-partnership for the purpose of continuing said business, and for the convenience of their friends and patrons, have removed their establishment to a more central part of the city. As it is their intention to keep on hand a good assortment of the best type, and to make such additions and improvements as the taste of the trade and the wants of the country require, they flatter themselves that this establishment will merit a large share of patronage. They have now several founts on hand, which can be furnished at a few hours' notice, and are prepared to make founts of all weights and sizes, from Pearl to 22 lines Pica, including a variety of Ornamental Letter. Their assortment of Cuts, Dashes, Brass Rule, and other Ornaments, will be found to be very extensive, of which specimens will be forwarded to Printers as soon as they can be prepared.

Printing Presses of every description, Printing Ink of the most approved qualities, Composing Sticks, Brass and Common Galleys, Chases, Imposing Stones, Cases, Paper and Press Boards, Standing Presses, Furniture, together with a complete assortment of all articles used in a Printing Office, will be kept constantly on hand.

Small founts, suitable for Book Binders, in great variety, may be had when called for.

Orders from all parts in the Union will be promptly and most carefully attended to, and particularly in supplying sorts for all founts furnished by their predecessors, Binny & Ronaldson, and Richard Ronaldson.
